

Lars Eilebrecht (Master of Science Computer Engineering, University of Siegen) has more than 13 years of experience in developing complex IT security and Web architectures for companies like Cable & Wireless, Parc Technologies (now Cisco) and the BBC. He was Director Product Management at CyberSolutions, and at the mobile network provider Quam he was responsible for building up the internal IT security architecture team. At the IT security company Ciphire Labs, as Director Security Solutions and Chief Security Architect, he has managed strategic IT projects for large international companies and various government organizations. Lars is co-founder and Vice President of the Apache Software Foundation, and a recognized Open Source and IT security expert.